Treatment of Moles

- Kindly note that most effective poisons has been withdrawn from the market by the Department of Forestry and Fisheries, that has left us with a few other options.
- Moles do not eat the roots of plants and live mostly of worms and insects under the ground, there for there is little to no success with poisoning moles.
- Moles will do everything in their power to protect their living area and very little can stop them from entering an area.
- We recommend to consider regular treatment to ensure barrier lines and can unfortunately not give any guarantee other than our best service and attention at all times.
- The different methods we make use of consists of gassing processes, flushing and mole trapping. For effectiveness we do a minimum of 3 treatments, 5 days apart. In some cases these treatments can even take up to 5/6 treatments.
- Please do not to pick it up a mole with your bare hands. Moles do bite and it has been reported that moles carry diseases, dangerous to humans.
- It is also recommended, once you notice the first mole to rather start as soon as possible with treatments as a mole population grows very fast and they do not like being without the WHOLE family.
